

Summary of the "Côté Pote" project in English.

Côté Pote is an application that allows a user or a group of users to publish bets of any kind, be it sports, music, video games...

The goal is to create an application where groups of friends or solo users without a group of friends can create bets.

The user will be able to find each bet posted on a feed where all bets can be viewed.

Users can place bets on any type of event (world cup, gaming competitions, etc.).

The application is inspired by both traditional betting applications and party applications.

I wanted a fun application, with the same codes as the party app or sports betting app, but with an added value.

The application is developed in React Native for the front-end and Symfony / API Platform for the back-end.